Lottery Prizes.

DENVER, June 16.—The official list of prizes drawn in the lottery yesterday is not yet out but the following are some of the prizes drawn. Ticket number 7,358, $30,000; number 95,389, $10,000; number 35,737, $5,000; number 20,107, $1,000; number 2,245, $1,000; number 25,984, $1,000; number 33,639, $1,000; number 40,574, $1,000; number 48,691, $2,500; number 99,679, $2,500.

Situation at Leadville.

DENVER, June 16. A News Leadville special says the indications are that the strike is about to be amicably settled. The miners hold a final meeting to-morrow morning, at which General Cook and staff will be present. The Miner's Union executive committee have drawn resolutions that they claim the mine owners have accepted and that this meeting is called for the purpose of submitting the resolutions to the union.

GENERAL NEWS.

Washington News.

END OF CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, June 16. Both houses of congress adjourned at noon sine die. All the regular annual appropriation bills were signed by the president in time to announce their approval before the hour of adjournment, and consequently all become laws. A number of nominations failed to receive action and expired at the close of the session. Among them was that of John F. Hartranft, as collector of customs for Philadelphia.

The president approved the sundry civil appropriation bill, and under its provisions nominated Colonel Albert J. Myer, chief signal officer, with the rank of brigadier general. The president and the cabinet were at the capital during the closing hours of congress.

CONFIRMATIONS.

The senate confirmed the following nominations:

Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Meade, deputy paymaster general.

Randolph G. Eckhart of Oregon, surgeon.

Rev. David Wilson of Colorado, post chaplain.

Charles A. Witherell of Nevada, register of the land office at Canon City.

Richard H. Fay, agent of the Umatilla Indians, Oregon.

Thomas Chestnut, postmaster of Silverton, Colorado.

Colonel Drum, adjutant general.

Otto Mears, Colorado; John B. Bowman, Kentucky; Alfred B. Meacham, Washington, D. C.; George W. Moneypenny, Columbus, O.; John J. Russell, Iowa, commissioners to ratify a treaty with the Ute Indians.

Jacob Helfeych Louisiania, to be coiner of the United States at New Orleans.

The senate confirmed the nomination of Colonel Myer, chief signal officer, to be brigadier general and rejected the nomination of Charles Pelham, of Alabama, to be associate justice of the supreme court of New Mexico.

COTTON AND WHEAT CROPS.

The following statements, showing the condition of cotton and wheat, was issued by the department of agriculture to-day: Respecting cotton, the returns indicate an increase in area planted of 7 per cent. The condition is better than last year at the same time, and is 99 this year against 96 last year. The weather is favorable everywhere. There is rather too much rain in Mississippi and Louisiana.

The acreage spring wheat shows very slight increase over last year. There is a decline in area in the states of Wisconsin and Iowa of nearly 12 per cent. In the New England states the area is the same. In Minnesota there is an increase of 9 per cent. and California 12. The condition of winter wheat is remarkably good at 94, which is 4 per cent. above the average of last year. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois all report above 100. Kansas is only 72, on account of the protracted drouth.

United States Treasurer Gilfillan to-day instructed the assistant treasurer at New York to invest to advantage on account of the sinking fund of the Union Pacific railroad $127,856, and on the Central Pacific account, $212,670.

LABOR BILLS KILLED.

On motion of Senator Logan the eight hour bill was taken up. Withers objected and it was tabled.

Senator Blaine moved the house resolution to give its annual employees a month's extra pay. It was amended to include the senate employees and then tabled to avoid action on a motion designed to kill it by making it to include all employees of the government.

OBSTRUCTION TO BUSINESS.

The second session of the 46th congress passed to-day very tamely. The only thing especially noticeable during the closing hours being the manner in which a faction of the house, aided by Speaker Randall, continued to succeed in preventing the transaction of any business whatever. The feeling of indignation caused by this exercise of tactics of obstruction which has several days made it practically impossible to pass scores of meritorious bills, that otherwise would have become law, is very widespread and undoubtedly well founded.

BILLS IN CONGRESS.

During the session terminated to day 1197 bills and joint resolutions were introduced in the senate and 4288 bills and joint resolutions in the house of representatives. The number introduced during the first or extra session were respectively 773 and 2526, making a grand total of 8784 introduced thus far during congress. At the hour of adjournment to day, besides a great number members have not yet reported from committees, there remains about 800 bills and joint resolutions on the senate calendar and about 1400 bills and joint resolutions on the house calendar, including 900 pension and other private bills which have been reported with committee recommendations for passage.

MINORITY REPORT OF EXODUS COMMITTEE.

Senator Windom presented in the senate to-day the views of the minority of the exodus committee appointed to investigate the causes which led to the emigration of the negroes from the southern to the northern states. The minority assert they found no evidence whatever tending to sustain the charge that the republican party or any of its measures have been instrumental in encouraging the exodus of the blacks from the south to the north. With reference to the "aid societies" encouraging and aiding this emigration the minority found that their purposes were purely charitably and had no connection whatever with any political movement. The minority proceeded to a very exhausted review of the evidence of some of the principle colored witnesses examined by the committee, nearly all of which witnesses the minority says attributed the cause of the exodus to a feeling of insecurity for life and property, denial of their political rights as citizens, long contended persecution for political reasons, a system of cheating by landlords and store keepers which rendered it impossible for them to make a living, no matter how hard they might work; the inadequacy of the school advantages, fear that they would eventually be reduced to a system of servitude even worse than slavery itself. As to the future of the exodus the minority refer to the testimony of many witnesses who declared it was begun and that what we have seen is nothing considered by what is to come, unless there is some radical change on the part of the democrats in the south. There is but one remedy for the exodus and that is fair treatment for the negroes. If the northern democrats would check the threatened inundation of black labor into their states, they must recognize the facts which have produced the exodus and unite with us in removing its causes. The report is signed by Senators Windom and Blair, the two republican members of the committee.

NAVAL STATIONS.

Senator Jones of Florida, chairman of the committee on naval affairs, reported with an amendment to his joint resolution instructing the secretary of the navy to take the necessary steps to secure adequate naval stations and harbors for the use of the naval forces of the United States at proper points on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, Central America and American isthmus. He asked present consideration. Senator Cockrel objected to the measure, stating the fixing of the policy of this government on an international question could not be brought in two and a half hours of the session and the resolution was placed on the calendar.

DONNELLY-WASHBURNE CASE.

Mr. Carlisle reported from the committee on the Donnelly-Washburne bribery case, and the report was ordered printed and recommitted. Mr. Carlisle said the committee unanimously declared the anonymous letter was written and sent by S. H. Finley. As to the other points there were disagreements in the committee.

Mr. Manning asked whether the committee reached any conclusion touching Donnelly's connection with the letter. If not he would submit a report of the committee on elections.

Mr. Carlisle said the majority had not concluded that Donnelly had any personal connection with it.

Mr. Baker asked if Donnelly had any connection at all.

Mr. Carlisle said he was somewhat embarrassed in answering, but he answered Baker in the negative.

Mr. Manning said with that vindication of five democratic members of the committee on elections, giving the seat to Donnelly.

Phister concurred in believing that Washburne was not fully entitled to his seat, but dissented from the conclusion that Donnelly was.

Keifer submitted another report from the committee on elections, declaring Washburne entitled to the seat.

Seven of the fifteen members of the committee agreed to this; and ten concurred in believing Donnelly was not entitled. The reports were ordered printed.

A Series of Questions.

CHICAGO, June 16.—The Tribune's New York special says there has been much speculation about Tilden's canvass at Cincinnati, but the appeal which will be presented to the delegates and which can have only one author, effectually settles the question of his candidacy. The appeal has been carefully guarded but a copy is in hand and is given in full. It contains twelve questions which make the query whether Tilden was elected in 1876, whether he is de jure president now, whether he was not defrauded out of office by conspiracy, whether the house had so declared, whether in this view the democratic convention can justly and consistently nominate another man, whether another democrat can consistently accept the nomination, must not the democratic convention vindicate Tilden and their rights by nominating him, will the democratic convention nominate another man than the one their platform declares was cheated out of the presidency, will not the republican press justly ridicule the illogical position of the democratic convention, what grand opportunity is presented to the democrats whose names have been published in connection with the candidacy to unite in a note to the convention withdrawing their names and presenting that of the man whom the people elected?

News from Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Port Town sends a dispatch which gives late Sitka advices. Chilcote Sound has been visited by the Indians from British Columbia, who had disposed of some $10,000 worth of British goods smuggled from the port. Simpson is taking furs in exchange. The North western Trading Co., have forwarded to the treasury department a statement of the affair with a request that it be taken to the president in consequence of the infringement of revenue laws.

Twenty miners accompanied by about the same number of officers and men from the sloop of war Jamestown, have gone on an expedition to Yukon river to prospect for placer diggings. The Indians gave friendly assurance.

Coal beds near Sootznoo have been reopened.

Scientists accompanying the expedition to Behring's Strait, in the United States schooner, Yukon have obtained valuable additions to the cabinet of the Smithsonian Institute.

Business at Sitka is generally prosperous.

Impure Water Causes a Scourge.

NORTH ADAMS, June 16.—A terrible scourge, resembling the dysentery, is prevailing in Williams, which has so far baffled the skill of the physicians. Over a thousand persons, old and young, have been stricken down. Physicians are busy night and day. It is feared many cases will prove fatal. There is little doubt but the disease is occasioned by impurities in the water in the reservoir.

At Cincinnati.

CHICAGO, June 16. The Times of Cincinnati says the important arrival is Mayor Prince of Boston, secretary of the national committee. Two more of the Nevada delegation are here. They say Tilden on the first ballot, and Field on the second.

One of the attaches of the Commercial states Halstead admits Garfield's defeat unless Tilden be nominated.

The Bank Defalcation.

BRATTLEBORO, June 16. The rumors upon which yesterday's dispatches were based concerning the insolvency of the First National bank of Brattleboro are more than realized. Although a thorough investigation had began only at 2 o'clock, enough is already known to warrant the statement that the loss will reach upward of a quarter of a million, though the forgeries of the president, S. M. Waite, who has secretly left the country and as the directors believe, taken a large sum of money, how much can only be determined by a searching investigation which will be begun on the arrival of the bank examiner, Hendee, who will act as receiver for the president. The forged papers includes the Connecticut River railroad for about $50,000, Fred Billings $20,000, Trenor W. Park $20,000, Leon & Healy of Chicago $20,000, Taunton Works about $10,000, C. J. Amidon, of Hinsdale $15,000, Vermilye & Co., of New York, some $75,000, and others whose names will be made public as the investigation proceeds.

Mr. Waite has insisted on having no cashier as being an unnecessary expense and has officiated himself as that officer. It is believed the frauds have been going on over ten years, having begun when $70,000 was loaned Maite & Bro., in Chicago, to help him out of difficulty in a bank. He took fraudulent notes as collateral for the debt and these he passed on the directors as assets of the bank. The examiner discovered discrepencies and notified Waite of his discovery and it is supposed he granted Waite's request and allowed him a week to make up the amount. Waite improved his time by bidding his wife good bye on the pretense of going to New York on business and he next wrote from Portland, "shall quit the country." Detectives believe he committed suicide.

Certificates of stock have been issued for wheat, as yet there has been no record found, and a double issue will undoubtedly be unearthed. The books of the bank are badly garbled. The present board of directors consisted of S. M. Wait, G. M. Diller, at present member of congress from this district, F. A. Nash, W. A. Richardson, H. C. Hillard, of Brattleboro, Warner Parker, of Putney, Addison Whitehead, of Vernon, W. P. Richardson, of Chester, and C. J. Amidon, of Ainsdale. Two of the members claim to have never qualified. [illegible] by the stockholders who claim dereliction of duty. Several stockholders are known to have lost their all by the collapse, and the feeling against the directors is very strong. Some of the directors will also eventually lose their all. Another country bank will suffer heavily.

Serenade to Garfield.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—General Garfield was serenaded by the National Veterans' association to-night. Attorney General Devens introduced him, referring to the humble origin and grand achievements of Garfield, his spotless integrity, and Christian character.

General Garfield spoke as follows:—

Fellow citizens—While I have looked upon this great army, I believe I have a new idea of the American people, when I recollect that wherever you find the sovereign power, every reverent heart bows before it and that here for one hundred years we have denied the sovereignty of any man and in place of it we have asserted the sovereignty of all. I see before me so vast a concourse, that it is easy for me to imagine that the rest of the American people are gathered here to night, and if they are all here every man would stand uncovered and in unsandeled feet in the presence of the majesty of the only sovereign power in this government under Almighty God. (Cheers.) And therefore to this great audience I respectfully pay homage that in part belongs to the sovereignty of the people. I thank you for this great and glorious demonstration. I am not for one moment misled into the belief that it refers to so poor a thing as any of our number. I know it means your reverence to your government, your reverence for your laws, your reverence for its institutions, and your compliment to one who is placed for a moment in a relation to you of peculiar importance. For all these reasons I thank you.

I cannot at this time utter a word on the subject of general politics. I would not mar the cordiality of the welcome, to which to some extent all are gathered, by any reference except to the present moment and its significance.

Business Outlook.

NEW YORK, June 16. The Public's table of the Clearing house exchange is very encouraging this week. It has been often decided that any marked change in the volume of business is unusually manifested in the operations of the large commercial cities, the effect being felt later in the least important towns. When the great increase of business began last year the gains were seen first in New York and afterwards in Boston, Philadelphia, and Chicago. But some months elapsed before the general increase in the smaller places was perceived. The most worthy feature, exchanges show, only a moderate increase at Boston, a small loss at Philadelphia, and smaller gain than has been usual at Chicago, while in New York the increase is largely due to sales of stock. There is no considerable increase at Milwaukee and Louisville and the loss at San Francisco is unusually large. These returns appear to confirm the impression that business is becoming more dull and stagnant.

St. Louis reports very large traffic, and has apparently been diverting some business from other cities, but New Orleans has no longer grain traffic since navigation opened on the lakes and canal. In short the signs of business and prevalent feeling is that everything was overdone last year and this year appears to bring business down to a sound basis.

Jerry Black Vindicates Garfield.

CHICAGO, June 16. The Journal's Washington special says a letter has been produced from Jerry Black dated in 1873, in which he completely vindicates General Garfield from any wrong in connection with the Credit Mobilier matter. Mr. Black says Garfield was evidently deceived by Oakes Ames and says his (Garfield's) integrity depended upon the question whether he acted with his eyes open. If he had known the true character of the proposition made to him he would not have endured it, much less than embraced it.

FOREIGN.

Cabinet Dissensions.

LIVERPOOL, June 16. The Courtier states there are grave dissensions in the cabinet. The Right Honorable Joseph Chamberlain, president of the board of trade, wishes to retire. His principal grievance is the failure of the government to recall Sir Bartle Frere from the governorship of the Cape of Good Hope. A bitter contest is anticipated on Bradlaugh's admission.

The Great Conference.

BERLIN, June 16. At the conference yesterday it was manifest the powers are more or less prepared to accept the original French proposal. Delay is likely, concerned, the matter will have to be settled by war with Greece. Armament is being vigorously pushed in Southern Albania. A military conference of leading officers was recently held at Pola, which deliberated measures of [illegible] in case of necessity.

King of Greece in London.

LONDON, June 16.—After the presentation of the address at Guild hall to the king of Greece, the corporation retained the distinguished guests at luncheon. The lord mayor proposed the health of the king who responded briefly referring to the progress Greece has made in recent years. He said as soon as the frontier question was settled he felt sure the construction of railways and other internal improvements would begin.

The Prince of Wales, responding to the health of the royal family, said he felt sure he expressed the sentiment of all Englishmen, when he sincerely hoped his majesty, the king of Greece, might shortly have the advantages which until now had been withheld from him.

Gladstone in proposing the health of the lord mayor and corporation said he trusted that the report of the celebration would go forth to the world as demonstrating to all whom it concerns, that the interest of Englishmen in the fortunes of Greece is real and universal. The corporation, he said, have chosen a day for this ceremony with singular felicity. For this day the representatives of the great powers of Europe are met together in the capital of the great German empire for the purpose of considering in what way they may promptly give effect to the stipulations of the treaty of Berlin and prove that the assembled wisdom and might of Europe speaks to the world in accents that denote reality, and are destined to have practical effect. I entertain the fervent wish united with rational confidence that they will be fulfilled; that the representatives of powers who are thus assembled may take in hand the important task committed to them in the spirit of equality and justice without respect to persons and without looking to the right or left; that they will fix their mind and attention on the object that is proposed to them, of giving fair and equitable interpretation to those important provisions of the treaty in which the future and hopes of Greece in no small degree are suspended. May every provision be adopted that can lighten the burden of the arrangements and insure its happy effect, so that it may take its place among those monuments of diplomatic wisdom which will receive grateful recognition, not only of men and the generation of to-day, but of posterity through ages to come.

English Parliament.

LONDON, June 16.—The house of lords last evening adopted two amendments to the burial bill, in opposition to the government, by majorities of 24 and 19 respectively.

In the house of commons Henry Richard, liberal, moved an address, praying her majesty to direct communications to be made by the foreign secretary with other powers with a view to mutual and simultaneous reductions of European armaments.

Leonard H. Courtney, liberal, suggested the adoption of a resolution in place of the address moved by Richard, to the effect that it is the duty of the government on all occasions, when circumstances will permit, to recommend to foreign governments a reduction of European armaments.

Premier Gladstone said he was not favorable to affirming of propositions which are not susceptible of immediate application, but if the house desired to adopt such a resolution he would not stand in the way.

Richard withdrew his motion and Courtney's resolution was carried with one dissent.

At a meeting of the Irish members of parliament it was resolved to ask the government to double the grant for relief of Irish distress and to change the uniform rate of one per centum; also that £60,000 instead of £30,000 be voted for the construction of fishery piers. If the amendments are rejected in parliament Parnell will move the bill for relief of the Irish be referred to a special committee of Irish members under the chairmanship of Foster.

Gala Day in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, June 16. The king and queen to-day opened an exhibition with much ceremony. The day is a holiday and the city is in its gala dress of flags.

Garfield's Poverty.

It was during one of the winters that followed while he was teaching a district school in Warrensville in this county that Sheriff A. W. Stiles, of Ashtabula, was one of his pupils. The future General had only one suit, and that was of Kentucky jeans. He had no overcoat and no undercloothing. Towards the close of the term the pantaloons became very thin, and while bending down one day he tore one of the knees nearly around. The chagrined teacher pinned it together as well as he was able, and that night inside somewhat bitter complaint to Mrs. Stiles, where he was boarding, in regard to his poverty.

"Oh, never mind," said the good woman, "You can go to bed and one of the boys will bring down your pants, and I will carefully darn the hole, so that it will be as good as new. When you get to be president you will forget all about such little things as that."

The good old pioneer dame was long since gathered to her rest, and did not live to see the day of which she so unwittingly prophesied; but her son, with all the other republicans of stalwart Ashtabula, and the state of Ohio, will work to give him the greatest majority of any president since the days of Lincoln. ## REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,

JAMES A. GARFIELD.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

CHESTER A. ARTHUR.

THE ISSUES FOR 1880.

There has been no presidential election since 1868 in which there has been a fight over great political principles. In 1868 the issue present was whether the reconstruction acts of the republican party were founded on constitutional rights and abstract justice. Another prominent issue was whether the nation should keep the spirit of its obligations to its creditors. In the discussion of these great issues, personal qualifications of the candidates sank out of sight. The result of the election was a most emphatic endorsement of the policy of the republican party with reference to reconstruction and finance. In 1872 the democratic party stood upon as good a republican platform as the republicans themselves. There was no great issue presented in the canvass. It was a campaign in which there was a discussion of the personal fitness and character of the candidates and trustworthiness of the two parties to carry out their promises. In 1876 the campaign was similar. There was no issue. Both parties were for administrative reform. The great question before the people was which candidate and which party can best be trusted to carry out the promised reforms.

But the campaign this year will differ from that of 1872 and 1876, and will resemble that of 1868. There will be issues presented by either party which underlie the foundation of our institutions. The democratic party in its revolutionary efforts to repeal certain war legislation respecting elections, has called into active clashing all the great principles of the two parties which fought for supremacy before, during and after the war. The last veto of President Hayes has clearly stated the issues, and will make them living ones in the coming campaign. It involves the old question of the relative powers of the state and national governments. The majority opinion of the United States supreme court and the dissenting opinion of Judge Field have also made these issues clear and well defined. Mr. Garfield has also placed himself on record in regard to these great issues.

He closed his great speech of March 1880 on the deputy marshal's appropriation bill with the following forcible language:

Let it be remembered that the avowed object of this new revolution is to destroy all the defenses which the nation has placed around its ballot-box to guard the fountain of its own life. You say that the United States shall not employ even its civil power to keep peace at the polls. You say that the marshals shall have no power either to arrest rioters or criminals who seek to destroy the freedom and purity of the ballot box.

I remind you that you have not always shown this great zeal in keeping the civil officers of the general government out of the states. Only six years before the war your law authorized marshals of the United States to enter all our hamlets and households to hunt for fugitive slaves. Not only that, it empowered one marshal to summon the posse comitatus, to command bystanders to join in the chase and aid in remanding to eternal bondage the fleeing slave. And your democratic attorney general, in his opinion published in 1854, declared that the Marshal of the United States might summon to his aid the whole able-bodied force of his precinct, not only including bystanders and other citizens generally, "but any and all organized and armed forces, whether militia of the state, or officers, soldiers, sailors, and marines of the United States," to join in the chase and hunt down the fugitive. Now, gentlemen, if for the purpose of making eternal slavery the lot of an American, you could send your marshals, summon your posse, and use armed forces of the United States, with what face or grace can you tell us that this government cannot lawfully employ the same marshals with their armed posse, if need be, to maintain the purity of our own elections and keep the peace at our own polls? You have made the issue and we have accepted it. In the name of the constitution and on behalf of good government and public justice, we make the appeal to our common sovereign.

This appeal will be made and we may be sure that our common sovereign, the people, will declare that every citizen shall have the right to cast a free ballot and have it honestly counted, and they will vote to keep at the statute books any law which will aid in the maintenance of a true and honest ballot.

The Chicago correspondent of the New World gives the following bit of political history which is very interesting and is founded in part at least on truth:—

The rush of Edmunds' voters to Garfield on the stampede on the last ballot was the first intimation the Grant managers had that their plans had miscarried. Conkling and his Grant colleagues sat like mourners at a funeral. Loyl P. Morton finally plucked up courage to ask Senator Conkling, when the result of the ballot had been declared, "Are you not going to move that it be made unanimous?" "No, sir," was the only and emphatic reply of Mr. Conkling. A moment later and Marshal Payn stepped up to the senator and asked if he ought not to move to make the nomination unanimous. To this Senator Conkling did not answer by words, but gave Marshal Payn a look that sent him back to his seat as if he had been shot.

A few moments afterwards when the demonstrations on the floor had subsided, Senator Baker, of New York, approached Senator Conkling and said that the New York delegation unanimously requested him to move that Mr. Garfield's nomination be made unanimous. At this Senator Conkling said, "If the delegation requests it I will do it for them."

The gentleman who seems to be most entitled to the defeat of Grant is State Senator W. H. Robertson, of New York, who in the future will contend with Senator Conkling for the management of New York politics. He went early to the convention, and by his personal influence secured the names of nineteen men who would fight Grant. The breaking of the unit rule in New York demoralized the party. Had it not been broken, Grant would have been nominated on the final ballot. Senator Robertson has fully paid off Senator Conkling for defeating him for the nomination of governor of New York in 1879.

Our esteemed republican contemporaries prefer the discussion of the bloody shirt to Garfield's silver record. It has more points of attraction about it you see. [Denver News.

This is a cool item. The News has already declined to meet the discussion with a half a dozen republican papers. It has not answered a single one of the "square questions" of the Times. It has not met a single issue raised in its discussion with the GAZETTE, though by not doing so it stands convicted of dishonorable forgery by attaching Garfield's name to speeches he never delivered.

The editor of the Leadville Democrat under the new management will be Mr. J. E. Havens.

Bitten off too Much.

Mr. Barret has bitten off more than he can chaw in that silver business. The Col. Springs GAZETTE proves its every statement false. [Register Call.

The Good Investment.

It was said that Garfield was given a college education by a rich old farmer who took a fancy to him. The old fellow made a good investment, for once, of his spare change. [Denver Republican.

Only Two Rounds.

The Colorado Springs GAZETTE whipped the News out and proved the falsity of the statements concerning Garfield's silver record in just two rounds. This may be called short and effective work. [Denver Tribune.

Intends to Lead.

John L. Routt says he has carried the tail of the republican party in Colorado long enough; that hereafter he intends to lead it. Noble leader. We tumble into the ranks like grasshoppers into an onion patch. [Canon City Record.

Back Pay.

When the back pay amendments were up Garfield voted against them steadily. Finally the were tacked to an important appropriation bill. Garfield was chairman of the committee, and its voice was in favor of the bill. Therefore he voted for it, and when his back pay was given him turned it back promptly into the treasury. [Denver Tribune.

Square Questions Unanswered.

The last charge against Garfield is that in an alleged interview with a New York Herald man he is said to have referred to the late silver excitement, as a "craze." Will our morning contemporary give us a proper term to apply to a public commotion that claimed to desire two metals, and yet legislated in the interest of one? The News can add this to our list of "square questions" yet unanswered. [Denver Times.

The Course Justified.

We agree with the editor of the Colorado Springs GAZETTE that events have fully justified the course of the Denver & Rio Grande management, since the first trouble between them and the Santa Fe company. Notwithstanding Judge Hallett's adverse decisions to the Rio Grande, steadily and unvaryingly made, General Palmer has been fully vindicated in every position taken; and to-day we find none to question the propriety of his course. [Pueblo Democrat.

"Now what do you mean by shaking your head
And always answering 'Nine?'"
"Sell kan kein English!" civilly said
The lady from over the Rhine.

Garfield's Experience on a Canal Boat.

At this early period the books which the young general mostly read were tales of the sea. These were the only stories that could be easily obtained.

The general says that he most vividly remembers the "Pirates Own Book," and the impression which it made lived with him for years. He dreamed of an impossible career on the ocean. At the age of sixteen he took the job of chopping twenty-five cords of wood for a man in the township of Newburg, within the present limits of the city. Here, facing the north, he could see the slaty blue of the Erie, and he imagined it was the ocean, and his craze for the sea increased. Finishing his wood chopping, he engaged to assist a Mr. Treat through haying and harvesting, and with his earnings in his pocket announced to his mother that he could no longer restrain his desire for the life on the wave, and that he had decided to immediately depart. Amid prayers and forbodings she bade him good-bye, and he found his way on foot to Cleveland. Seeking the harbor he boarded the only ship that lay in port and inquired for the captain. His ideas of a captain were formed from the stories he had read, and he imagined a dashing, brave and gallant gentleman—capable, when the occasion required, of performing desperate deeds, but supposed to be, as a general thing, generous to a failing. To the youth's question a hand replied that the captain would soon come up from the hold. The prophesy proved true. First he was heard, then seen clearing his way with volley after volley of oaths. The bashful youth gently approached and diffidently asked if he wanted a hand. An increased flood of oaths was the only answer received. A suppressed titter came from the men, and the coming general retired in confusion. Walking about the docks and looking at the scanty indications of commerce at that early day, he began to collect his thoughts and finally reasoned that as the lake was to the ocean so was the canal to the lake, and his failure in securing a situation arose from the fact that he was not sufficiently posted in the ways of sailors. To the canal he would go and learn. He went and obtained the position of driver on the first canal boat to which he applied.

His disposition and capacity to learn was such that at the end of the first round trip he was promoted from driver to bowsman. He steered instead of driving. The first trip saw his first fight and first victory. He was holding his "setting pole" against his shoulder. Dave, a good natured hand, was standing a short distance away, when the boat, taking a sudden lunge, the pole slipped from the young man's shoulder and flew with terrible force towards Dave. A loud call from the young general of "Look out, Dave," was not in time to warn him, and the hand was struck a painful blow on his ribs. He was furiously enraged and threatening to thrash the offender, rushed like a mad bull with his head down toward Garfield. The latter took in the situation in an instant, and stepping aside and waiting his approach, dealt him a fearful blow under the ear. This felled him into the hold of the boat. In an instant more Garfield was upon him with his clenched first uprised to strike.

"Pound him, d—n him," cried out the captain. "D—d if I'll interfere. A man who'll git mad at an accident orto to thrashed."

But he didn't strike. He saw his antagonist was helpless. They both arose and shook hands, and ever after were stronger friends than before.

The general says that by actual count, during his first trip as bowsman, he fell into the canal fourteen times. This was serious. The malaria of the canal region would in all probability have taken hold of his system in due time, anyhow, but this helped it. He could not swim a stroke, and came very near drowning several times. At length he floundered in for the fourteenth time, and in his efforts to save himself luckily caught hold of the drag ropes of the boat. Hand over hand it gave out, and his hopes became small. Finally the rope held and he pulled himself on board. Ever philosophical, he examined the rope and found that it had curiously enough drawn itself into a crack and knotted. He concluded that there was not more than one chance in a thousand of a rope thus knotting itself and he thought it was a significant fact. As he sat there wet in the cold of the night his mind wandered to his mother, and he remembered that he had not told her of his whereabouts, and she imagined that he was upon the lake. He decided to return to her at the end of that trip and rest and recruit for a time. This resolution was kept. Arriving in the vicinity of their humble home at night he quietly approached the door and heard his mother in prayer. She prayed for the safe return of the wandering son. At the close he softly opened the door, and the prayer was answered. Then for the first time did he fully comprehend that his departure had crushed her.

Following this he was for six months prostrated with the ague cake in his side. This mother watched over him with constant care during all the terrible days of suffering, which only his iron constitution permitted him to survive. He was still determined to return to the canal, and thence to the lake and ocean. His mother well knew that any opposition would be useless, so she argued that he had better attend school for a time, when he was able, and thus fit himself to teach school during the winter months when he could not sail. He began the life of a scholar in the old Genuga seminary in Chester, and from there went to Hiram and Williams.—[Cumberland Leader.

Bismarck and His Dog.

Bismarck's big dog has been growling again. The chancellor was listening to a petition presented by two delegates from Altona, and his dog was on the carpet at his feet. The delegates—Nothnagel and Semper—took their seats on a leathern couch facing his highness. Nothnagel held a roll of paper in his right hand, and being an energetic speaker accustomed to emphasize his argument by gesticulation, he waved his scroll about while addressing the chancellor, unmindful of the fact that his movements elicited several successive disapproving utterances from the watchful hound. Presently the dog rose with a fierce growl, whereupon Prince Bismarck hastily interrupting his interlocutor's remarks, exclaimed, "Do put down that scroll, I beg of you. My dog, like myself, entertains a profound aversion to every kind of paper. He believes it to be a weapon!" It is needless to add that Mr. Nothnagel promptly complied with this request, obviously to the satisfaction of the Realm-Dog, which forthwith subsided into his former peaceful attitude.

Peter the Great.

In England, Peter is perhaps better known by his eccentricities than by his genius. Bishop Burnet had a poor opinion of him, and Evelyn's servants called his people "right nasty." The monarch who could not bear to face a crowd; who drove a wheelbarrow through a much prized holly hedge; who carried a ruby worth $10,000 in his waistcoat pocket, wrapped in brown paper, as a present to King William; and, finally, who labored in Deptford dockyard as a common ship carpenter—such is English memory of the great Czar. In the judgment of the general public, Peter will not for a moment be placed in the same rank with Napoleon. Yet he was a general victorious to the end, and a monarch never dethroned; the head of his Church, and the father of his country. As such, now his cruelties and his madness are forgotten; he is enshrined in the hearts of the Russian people.

A Lawyer's Interesting Plea.

A Cleveland lawyer, defending a handsome young lady charged with larceny, closed his appeal to the jury thus: "Gentlemen? you may hang the ocean on a grape vine to dry, lasso an avalence, pin a napkin to the mouth of a volcano, skim the clouds from the sky with a teaspoon, throw salt on the tail of our noble American eagle, whose sleepless eye watches over the welfare of our nation, paste 'For Rent' on the moon and stars; but never for a moment delude yourself with the idea that this charming girl is guilty of the charge preferred against her." The jury acquitted her without leaving their seats.

Ben Butler Sees Bullion.

At Reno on Sunday evening Ben Butler, who was stretching his legs on the depot platform, saw some bars of Comstock bullion in the express car, and walking up looked curiously at the great white bricks, and remarked to the messenger: "So that's silver is it?"

"Yes, general."

"Where is it going?"

"Down to 'Frisco, to be made into spoons."

SURE CURE

—FOR—

Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption,

And all Diseases of THROAT and LUNGS.

Put up in Quart Size Bottles for Family Use.

Scientifically prepared of Balsam Tolu, Crystalized Rock Candy, Old Rye and other tonics. The Formula is known to our best physicians, is highly commended by them, and the analysis of our most prominent chemist, Prof. G. A. MARINER, of Chicago, is on the label of every bottle. It is well known to the medical profession that TOLU ROCK and RYE will afford the greatest relief for Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Weak Lungs; also Consumption, in the incipient and advanced stages.

Used as a BEVERAGE and APPETIZER, it makes a delightful tonic for family use. Is pleasant to take; if weak or debilitated, it gives tone, activity and strength to the whole human frame.

CAUTION. Don't be deceived by unprincipled dealers who try to palm off on you Rock and Rye in place of our TOLU ROCK AND RYE, which is the only medicated article made, the genuine having a GOVERNMENT STAMP on each bottle.

The proprietors of the brewery have determined to put down prices of the above so as to command the trade of El Paso county. The prices now are as low as any beer, and the article is one hundred per cent better, both as a beverage and health-giving properties. Ale and stout cost more to produce, and always command much higher prices; but, as we wish the public to judge for themselves, is the reason for the great reduction. Once used, always used. It is as far above lager beer as the finest imported wines are superior to domestic.

R. W. STEVENSON,
Manager, Gazette.
ABE ROBERTS,
Manager, "Mountaineer."

The Denver & Rio Grande pay car left here at two o'clock yesterday for the southern extension.

He sat upon a cactus plant with wonderful celerity, and all because he used a man with justified asperity.

Pueblo is troubled with vagrant cows. That city is welcome to the baleful strawberry roan which caused so much damage here.

Some of the trees along the west side of Tejon street, above Kiowa are dying. The cause is not known, although some persons are of the opinion that gas escaping from the mains is killing them.

Captain Tell has received the appointment of deputy city marshal. The captain although on the police force but a short time has proved himself a capable and efficient officer and justly merits the honor conferred upon him.

We call attention to the new advertisement of Messrs. Monk & Inglesby, in the columns of the GAZETTE this morning. This firm is rapidly stepping to the front in the dry goods line and their stock is one of the most complete in the city.

"Now gather strawberries while you may, old time is still a flying," so said the small boy as he lay behind the fence perspiring. "Yes gather them," the gardener said as he loaded up his shooter, "your teacher may neglect his work but I will be your tutor."

The large fires which prevailed in the vicinity of Manitou Park and which were somewhat subdued by the shower two weeks ago are again burning violently. Should they continue to spread it is feared that they will destroy much of the valuable timber in that vicinity.

The excursion to the Grand Canon, under the patronage of the ladies of the Presbyterian church, will take place the 24th of June as already announced in the GAZETTE. Tickets can be obtained at Howbert & Co.'s, Tribe & Jeffcray's and Ferris & Macklin's for $4.50. The excursion will undoubtedly be a most pleasant one.

The prospectus of a new medical journal to be published in Colorado Springs, has been received by us. The periodical is to be called the Rocky Mountain Medical Review and the first number will appear in September next. The journal will be published monthly and will be of a general scientific as well as a medical character. We recommend it to all those interested in the intelligent discussion of medical and scientific topics. The magazine will be edited by A. Wellington Adams, M.D., of this city, assisted by James A. Hart, M.D. The associate editors are W. H. Williams, M.D., Denver; Jacob Reed, M.D., Colorado Springs; F. J. Bancroft, M.D., Denver; B. P. Anderson, M.D., Colorado Springs. The association of so many able gentlemen and eminent physicians upon the editorial staff of this journal insures a carefully prepared and attractive series of articles. The state of Colorado needs a medical journal and we are sure this will fully supply the need.

Rich Strike in Ruby.

We learn from the Gunnison News that a remarkable strike has been made right in the heart of the town of Ruby Camp. The strike is within one hundred yards of the postoffice and is said to be one of the greatest strikes ever made in the camp. The News says: "The float was discovered by Messrs. Murphy and Johnson while digging the foundation for a house, and they located on May 28, the Governor Davis lode, and on the same date Messrs. Charles Root, H. M. Power, C. Christopher and J. Rarus located its extension, the Murphy lode. The vein has been sunk upon in three places, sufficiently to show its character. It runs generally east and west, and its ores are identical with the Forest Queen massive ruby, brittle and arsenical iron, with chloride and decomposed granite near the surface. The surface openings show this rich ore (1,000 to 2,000 ounces) to run from one foot to two, and a half feet of solid pay mineral."

Racing on the Fair Grounds.

We doubt whether a race ever took place in Colorado Springs on which so much money was wagered, or in which more interest was manifested than the one which took place on Tony's track yesterday afternoon. For the past week it has been the principal topic of interest among our horse men, and it was generally conceded among the sporting men that it would be the most exciting race of the season. Based upon these expectations, quite a crowd betook themselves to the course yesterday afternoon to view the sport. The dash, one of 500 yards, between Dan Lamasney's Little Casino and Bill Stockton's Nick was arranged to come off at 2:30, but was not called until 4:30. In the mean time money was freely displayed, bets on either horse finding easy takers, and it was estimated that not less than $5,000 changed hands upon the result.

At four o'clock the crowd seemed anxious for the race and after some delay the horses made their appearance on the track. The general make up of Lamasney's mare seemed to create a favorable impression at first sight and she was evidently the favorite in the minds of the majority. The word go was given and Little Casino who had gathered herself for a good start at once took the lead and assumed a gait that was hard to overcome. She not only started with a good lead but proved herself capable to widen the distance between herself and her opponent passing under the wire twenty yards in advance. There was but little interest manifested in the race after the start, and the backers of Nick left the ground sadly disappointed and not a little out of pocket.

Justice Court.

Several cases of a criminal nature were instituted in Judge Stewart's court yesterday. The first on the docket was that of the people against J. Willis, in which Mr. E. F. Hooker was the complaining witness. The charge entered in the warrant was that of malicious mischief. Mr. Hooker's testimony was substantial that the defendant, Mr. Willis, ran into his carriage in Ute Pass with the evident intent of doing it injury. His Honor deemed the testimony insufficient and discharged the defendant assessing costs in the case to the complainant.

The case of the people against Nat West for disturbing the peace, was adjourned until this morning, as was also the case of the people against O. Saguel and D. Davis for being participants in the fight which occurred on the corner of Tejon and Pike's Peak on Monday night.

J. J. Riddy was produced in court at 4 o'clock, also charged with disturbing the peace. He was the man who figured so prominently in the demonstration which occurred on Pike's Peak avenue yesterday morning. Mayor Bacon was the first to attempt his arrest and actually had him in tow, but Reddy managed to release himself and started on a lively run with the mayor a close second but the colonel lost his footing and gave up the chase. Deputy Sheriff Dana who was in the vicinity joined in and after a lively chase of three hundred feet captured his man. The pursued did not seem to show an inclination to give up and the combined efforts of four officers was required to convey him to the jail. He was discharged upon the payment of $15 and the costs in the case.

Honor to whom Honor Is Due

The wheel-horses of the democratic party of El Paso county, who have done the heavy work of the party, will rejoice to read the following flattering notice of their tried and true companion, which appears in the last issue of the Summit County Times: "The delegates to the democratic state convention have returned, and we think have gained and deserve the thanks of the citizens of Summit county for the successful manner in which they have discharged the duties that devolved upon them. Not from a partizan standpoint, but in the interest of the people of the county. Summit has secured one of the delegates to the National convention at Cincinnati, the alternate of the Hon. W. A. H. Loveland. The compliment thus paid this county in choosing one of her citizens, Dr. F. H. Sutherland, for the position, will doubtless be properly appreciated by our citizens. No worthier gentleman, or better representative of our mining interests, could have been selected. Dr. Sutherland has accepted the position and will doubtless find time, while creditably discharging his political duties, to give much information to his distinguished associates regarding the wonderful mineral resources of this part of Colorado, and particularly of Summit county."

Personal.

Messrs. George H. McMillan and Samuel P. Foster, of Howell, Michigan, are registered at the National.

Among the arrivals at the National hotel yesterday were Messrs. O. J. De Heur, Peter Metzger and J. G. De Prez, of Shelbyville, Indiana.

Mr. F. E. Nims, general passenger agent of the Denver & Rio Grande, accompanied by his wife, were registered at the Springs hotel yesterday.

Mr. C. W. Hornock, of Chicago, who has been spending the past week in the city, returned east yesterday.

Las Vegas has six ladies who will tip the hay scale at 1500 pounds.

OUT WEST.

Kokomo has a musical society.

The Summit county Times of June 12th says: "The Gunnison victims are returning by wagon loads and in squads on foot. The boom for that country was entirely too early."

A Dakota man has a novel Indian relic in the shape of a perfectly formed skull, with an arrow head shot in the eye and piercing the brain.

On account of the great failing and incorrectness of Humbug mountain to convey to the stranger a good impression of the mineral resources of that section, an attempt is being made to change the name to that of Mayflower mountain, instead of the former name, which has been given it by the pioneers who first broke trail over the main range.

The Gunnison News, owned in part by the theatrical manager, J. H. Haverly, has a column obituary of the late John Brougham, the genial actor and author who died recently in New York.

There is a faro bank dealer in Breckenridge who once occupied a seat in the house of representatives so he says.

The very latest, collected from a drunken bull-whacker's repertoire: "I measure a yard and a half between the eyes, am wooley, and can't be curried. Whoop!"

The belle of Gunnison is fond of iced cream.

The Gunnison News gushes over a half pound of fresh butter in the following poetic style: "We have recently been so fortunate as to obtain from Mr. A. O. Miller a small supply of butter made at his ranch, a few miles up the Tomichi. This butter is a veritable triumph of dairy skill. Made from richest milk, it owes its golden color to no base additions, but to the careful and skillful hands of the maker. And to the delightful and appreciative consumer it is rather a poem, a spring idyl, redolent of budding flowers and tender grass, and all pastoral joys, than a mere vulgar lubricator of food.

The Pueblo Chieftain of the 15th inst. says: "Judge Belford of Pennsylvania, (father of Judge Belford, and present member of congress,) F. M. Heaton and Dr. E. A. Duncan, of the general land office, arrived in the city yesterday. They leave to morrow for the purpose of appraising the Ft. Reynolds Military Reservation, which is soon to be sold by order of the secretary of the interior, in eighty acre tracts, at public auction at the land office in Pueblo. They will be accompanied by Mr. H. K. Pinckney, of the land office, and stop to-morrow night at H. M. Fosdick's. The labors of the commission will probably occupy from four to six weeks' time. Their headquarters will be in Pueblo, in the Bartels house on Fifth street. The appraisement and sale of this property, nearly 25,000 acres of land, the greater portion of which is arrable, is something for which many of our settlers have wished for a long time, and will set at rest the yearly struggle for the grazing lands of the reservation."

Items About the Strike.

Last Tuesday's Leadville Democrat contained the following items concerning the strike:

Major Pritchard, the provost marshal, has the confidence of the public.

Colonel Burchnell as ordinance officer is the right man in the right place.

The cavalry force will be reduced today, and the infantry placed on reserve duty.

Major Minor wore the gray. He is an efficient member of General James' staff.

Captain Jacque is an efficient aid-de-camp. His record dates from the first Bull's Run.

General Cook has been too long in Colorado to need an introduction. He fills the bill.

The jail is crowded with the violators of martial law and they will remain therein until the civil authorities can secure control, when bail may be secured.

When called upon to muster into state service, a large number of members of the Pitkin cavalry withdrew, the situation being such that they would not accept.

The Chrysolite mine is now working a force of five hundred men, and the Little Chief three hundred.

A number of persons yesterday left the city at the warning of a paper signed "citizens committee."

They Stole a March.

Mr. A. V. Carpenter, a prominent boot and shoe merchant and well known cattle owner of Pueblo, registered at the Springs hotel last night. He was accompanied by his wife, who up to noon yesterday was known to her many friends in Pueblo as Miss Mattie A. Gorman. The wedding took place in Pueblo at half past twelve o'clock yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Welch, of South Pueblo officiating. The marriage we are informed was strictly private and, indeed, the lady and gentleman stole a march on their friends many of whom are yet in ignorance of the happy event.

Real Estate.

Our transfers for the past week show sales of $10,000 of city property, $3,350 of outlying lands, $300 of lots in the town of Monument, and $25 in Colorado City.

Many new comers are looking around with a view to purchasing and locating here, and within the last few days some of the finest summer residences have been rented to summer tourists, the influx of whom may be said to have started in good earnest.

CHANGE OF FIRM.

Dr. F. H. Sutherland would respectfully inform his patrons and friends that he has disposed of all his interests connected with the practice of dentistry in this place, to Dr. Charles E. Edwards, of Philadelphia, a dentist of long experience and of the highest character and ability. He was for several years connected with the Pennsylvania college of Dental Surgery, as demonstrator, and brings flattering testimonials from the professors of that college, and also from others of high standing in that city. I have a deep feeling of pride and gratification in being able to secure to my patrons the services of one so thoroughly competent, gentlemanly in manner, and of high character.

And as such I cordially and confidently recommend him to all who need the services of a skillful dentist. I also take this occasion to return my thanks and express the continued interest I feel toward those who have so long shown their confidence in my sincerity, to give them my best services. The Dr. will open immediately and be ready to answer any and all demands for his professional services.
